Why code search matters

- Stand on the shoulders of giants
    - Modern software development heavily depends on library re-use
- Number of libraries increasing drastically
- Code size of projects increasing drastically
- (Purely) functional programming is the modular solution for scaling to large systems