Matching arguments

- Construct a directed acyclic graph representing the argument dependencies

- Try matching one argument from each type (with unification), only considering arguments which don't appear in the types of other arguments

- Make sense of the unification result ($a \sim f\ b$), remove variables which are completely determined, and convert the types in the appropriate places

- Repeat until all arguments are matched